CAPE OF GOOD HOPE

Version January 2017

Introduction

Postage stamps and related objects are miniature communication tools, and they tell a story about cultural and political identities and about artistic forms of identity expressions. They are part of the world's material heritage, and part of history. Ever more of this postal heritage becomes available online, published by stamp collectors' organizations, auction houses, commercial stamp shops, online catalogues, and individual collectors. Virtually collecting postage stamps and postal history has recently become a possibility. These working papers about Africa are examples of what can be done. But they are work-in-progress! Everyone who would like to contribute, by sending corrections, additions, and new area studies can do so by sending an email message to the APH editor: Ton Dietz (dietzaj@asc.leidenuniv.nl). You are welcome!

Postal history and postage stamps of Cape of Good Hope

Ton Dietz, African Studies Centre Leiden, January 2017

Introduction

“The Portuguese were the first Europeans to reach the Cape of Good Hope in 1488, led by the explorer Bartolomeu Dias. Table Bay, for over one hundred years known as Saldanha (named after one of Albuquerque's sea captains), became a convenient harbor on the long, hard and dangerous sea voyage to the East. Here letters were left and exchanged with ships sailing back to Europe. Frequently, packets of letters were left under postal stones inscribed in French, Dutch and Danish, which became the first, unmanned, post offices of the Cape. The earliest of these, dated 1619, was inscribed in English. A supply camp was established by the East India Company in 1652 in the area which later became Cape Town. It was first occupied by British Forces in 1795. Since 1814 it was a British Colony until it was incorporated into the Union of South Africa, as the Cape Province, on 31 May 1910”.

“Cape of Good Hope History

The first European to reach the cape was the Portuguese explorer Bartolomeu Dias in 1488, who named it the "Cape of Storms" (Cabo das Tormentas). It was later renamed by John II of Portugal as "Cape of Good Hope" (Cabo da Boa Esperança) because of the great optimism engendered by the opening of a sea route to India and the East.

The land around the cape was home to the Khoikhoi people when the Dutch first settled there in 1652. The Khoikhoi had arrived in these parts about fifteen hundred years before. They were called Hottentots by the Dutch, a term that has now come to be regarded as pejorative. Dutch colonial administrator Jan van Riebeeck established a resupply camp for the Dutch East India Company some 50 km north of the cape in Table Bay on 6 April 1652 and this eventually developed into Cape Town. Supplies of fresh food were vital on the long journey around Africa and Cape Town became known as "The Tavern of the Seas".

On 31 December 1687 a community of Huguenots arrived at the Cape from the Netherlands. They had escaped to the Netherlands from France in order to flee religious persecution there, examples of these are Pierre Joubert who came from La Motte-d'Aigues for religious reasons. The Dutch East India Company needed skilled farmers at the Cape of Good Hope and the Dutch Government saw opportunities for the Huguenots at the Cape and sent them over. The colony gradually grew over the next 150 years or so until it stretched for hundreds of kilometres to the north and north-east. The United Kingdom invaded and occupied the Cape Colony in 1795 The First Occupation but relinquished control of the territory in 1803. However, British forces returned on 19 January 1806 and occupied the Cape once again The Second Occupation The territory was ceded to the UK in the Anglo-Dutch Treaty of 1814 and was henceforth administered as the Cape Colony. It remained a British colony until incorporated into the independent Union of South Africa in 1910. The Portuguese government erected two navigational beacons, Dias Cross and Da Gama Cross, to commemorate Vasco da Gama and Bartolomeu Dias as explorers who as mentioned were the first explorers to reach the cape. When lined up, the crosses point to Whittle Rock, a large, permanently submerged shipping hazard in False Bay”.

Stamps were first issued by the colony on 1 September 1853. The two stamps that were issued were a one penny in brick-red and a four pence in blue. They were printed by Messrs Perkins, Bacon & Co in London.

The original die for these stamps was cut by William Humphrys, an engraver employed by Perkins Bacon. Sheets of a special handmade paper, measuring 282 mm by 536 mm, were used to print 240 stamps per sheet. The stamps were issued imperforate. The rate of postage within the colony was 4d for a half ounce letter and 1d for a newspaper.

On 18 February 1858 two new values became available: a six pence and a one shilling. The six pence rate was for payment of half ounce letters to Great Britain and the one shilling rate was for postage to some foreign countries. On 15 September 1860 the rate for local letters in Cape Town was reduced to 1d. A similar reduction was made in Port Elizabeth on 1 May 1861.

On 1 April 1863 the rate to Great Britain was increased to one shilling, if sent by mail packet, and reduced to four pence, if sent by private vessels.

The triangular stamps were demonetised on 1 October 1900.

The so-called Wood-Blocks

Due to a shortage of one penny and four pence stamps, a local printer, Messrs. Saul Solomon & Co., was employed to provide a supply of one penny and four pence stamps, and these were issued in February 1861. It was then discovered that a consignment of stamps from London had already arrived, on 5 May 1860, although the bills of lading had gone astray. A year later the cases with the stamps from London were claimed.

Despite the popular nickname, the stamps were in fact engraved on steel. Each stamp was individually cut into a single piece of metal (known as a cliché) so there are many slight variations. 64 clichés were then glued to wooden blocks for printing. Two were accidentally placed into the wrong set, resulting in one colour error per sheet of 64 - a blue penny stamp and a red four pence stamp - which have always been highly prized rarities”.

https://upload.wikimedia.org/wikipedia/en/thumb/3/3e/Cape\_Colony\_Wood\_Block.jpg/800px-Cape\_Colony\_Wood\_Block.jpg

“In 1861 werden 2 beroemde "Kaapse Driehoeken" gedrukt door Saul Solomon & Co in Kaapstad. Deze uitgiftes (Michel nrs 5 en 6) worden traditiegetrouw "houtsnedes" (in het Engels "woodblocks") genoemd, maar ze zijn toch met een staalplaat gedrukt.

De eerste driehoekige postzegels ter wereld (ook Kaapse Driehoeken) werden gedrukt in 1853 door Perkins Bacon in Londen (Michel 1-4). Ontwerper was Charles Bell, Directeur-Generaal van Kaap de Goede Hoop. De graveur was William Humphrys.

De zegels van 1861 moesten in Zuid-Afrika worden gedrukt omdat de voorraad bijna op was. De tekening en de uitvoering van deze emissie zijn in het algemeen primitief en slordig.

Pas in 1863/1864 werd de zogenaamde "tweede druk" uitgegeven, gedrukt bij De La Rue in Londen door gebruik te maken van de oorspronkelijke platen van Perkins Bacon van de zogenoemde "eerste druk".

Kaapse Driehoeken is de veel gebruikte bijnaam van de eerste postzegels van Kaap de Goede Hoop. Ze zijn zeer zeldzaam en erg waardevol”.

<http://postzegels.jouwweb.nl/zuid-afrika/de-drukkerij>

“De zegels uit 1861 werden in Zuid-Afrika gedrukt en zijn nogal slordig van tekening. De tweede druk uit 1863/64 werd gedrukt bij De La Rue in Londen en het uiterlijk van die zegels is veel ‘netter.’ De Kaapse driehoeken zijn dikwijls niet gewoon afgestempeld, maar z.g. ‘pen vernietigd.’ Veel boeren woonden nogal afgelegen en hun brieven werden door bedienden, met gepast geld, naar het postkantoor gebracht. Om te voorkomen dat de bediende het geld in eigen zak stak, kochten de boeren postzegels en gaven hun brieven gefrankeerd mee. Soms weekten de bedienden die zegels er weer af en verkochten ze, waarna de brief alsnog ongefrankeerd op de post werd gedaan. Daarna werd penvernietiging toegestaan door een paraaf op het zegel te plaatsen. Veel Kaapse driehoeken belandden zo als ‘waardeloos’ in de prullenbak, waardoor ze nu heel schaars en dus kostbaar zijn”.

<http://www.postzegelblog.nl/2011/12/23/kaapse-driehoeken-postzegels-met-een-verhaal/>

Aan de Kaapse driehoek is de naam van Edward Stanley Gibbons verbonden. Deze had sinds 1856 een postzegelhandeltje in de apothek van zijn vader. In 1863 kwamen hier twee matrozen met twee zakken postzegels van Kaap de Goede Hoop. Hij kocht de partij voor £ 5 en verkocht de postzegels uiteindelijk voor £ 500. Dit vormde het beginkapitaal voor een carrière in de postzegelhandel.

http://www.wikiwand.com/nl/Kaapse\_driehoek

<http://postzegels.jouwweb.nl/upload/8/2/0/filavaria/driehoek1861woodblock.large.jpg>

“In Zuid-Afrika zijn de "Kaapse Driehoeken" in de filatelistische wereld een begrip. Het betreft de eerste zes zegels van de Britse Kaapkolonie (Kaap de Goede Hoop), die in de periode 1853-1864 zijn uitgegeven (Michel 1-6). De driehoekige zegels worden tot de grafisch best geslaagde zegels ter wereld gerekend, met een zittende vrouwenfiguur (Brittannia) die het zegelbeeld beheerst. Door het gebruik van verschillende papiersoorten, kleurverschillen per oplage en wisselingen in drukkerijen kunnen deze zegels zeer gespecialiseerd verzameld worden. Bijzonder vermeldenswaard zijn de zgn. "houtsneden" of in het Engels "Woodblocks" (Michel 5 en 6). Overigens zijn deze twee zegels helemaal niet met behulp van houtsneden gedrukt, maar dit idee blijkt onuitroeibaar te zijn.

Aan het eind van 1860 was de voorraad van de 1d en 4d zegels vrijwel uitgeput, terwijl de komst van nieuwe voorraden van deze waarden vanuit Engeland zeer onzeker was. De Zuid-Afrikaanse Postdienst besloot daarop een geringe oplage van deze waarden te bestellen bij een kleine drukkerij in Kaapstad, die echter druktechnisch slecht uitgerust was en daardoor zeer primitief ogende zegels afleverde. Daarnaast maakte de drukkerij ook enkele fouten: per ongeluk zijn in een enkel geval de kleuren verwisseld, zodat er zegels van 1d in blauw en zegels van 4d in rood bestaan. Daarvan zijn echter zeer weinig exemplaren over”.

1885 Military Telegraphs (for use in British Bechuanaland)

“In 1884, the telegraph detachment units were amalgamated in the Telegraph Battalion; and that was the position until the outbreak of the First World War. This Battalion saw service in Bechuanaland in 1884-85. There was however, an exception made in the use of stamps produced and printed for the British Army: two Cape of Good Hope values, the 6d Bright purple Wmk Cable Anchor and the 1s Blue green Wmk Crown CC, overprinted “Military Telegraphs.” were brought into use by Sir Charles Warren when he entered Vryburg in Bechuanaland on 7 February 1885 (The Warren Expedition 1885) and were never used for civilian purposes.” <http://www.cghstamps.com/R35.html>
